About Voluntown

A TOWN RICH WITH HISTORY

Incorporated in 1721, the town of Voluntown lies in the southeastern part of Connecticut, bordering the State of Rhode Island, as well as Windham County and the towns of North Stonington and Griswold. The town's population of 2,400 doubles during the summer months as tourism season flourishes.

Pachaug State Forest provides 28,000 acres of recreational opportunities and the area is known as one of the top five sites for fall foliage in Connecticut. Within town limits, visitors will find numerous way to get back to nature, including camping sites, riding trails, the state's only "horse camp." There is boating and fishing at Beach Pond, which has a public boat launch and is annually stocked by both Connecticut and Rhode Island.

Voluntown is also home to restaurants featuring home-style cooking as well as many entrepreneurial companies offering services from carpentry and construction to antiques and motion pictures. Dairy and tree farms are an important part of the Voluntown economy, as well.

The mission of the Voluntown Economic Development Commission is to foster economic development in Voluntown and increase the tax base by retaining existing businesses and helping them grow, encouraging indigenous business start-up, and recruiting light industry.

Please contact the Voluntown Economic Development Commission at voluntownedc@gmail.com if you have any corrections for the directory.
